This workshop will explore the therapeutic use of miniature figures with children, adults and groups in the clinical setting. Directive and non-directive therapeutic modalities using miniatures will be presented, including: Floor games using miniatures alone; exercises pairing miniatures with expressive arts materials; sandtray and Jungian Sandplay therapies. Assessing the developmental appropriateness of the various exercises and modalities will also be discussed. Participants will have the opportunity to experience the use of miniatures first hand through a simple introductory exercise and a collaborative group exercise using miniatures in a sandtray.

At the conclusion of the workshop, participants should be able to:

- Summarize the therapeutic value of using miniature figures in therapy;
- Describe the range of therapeutic exercises using miniatures alone and in combination with other materials;
- Explain the difference between individual, collaborative, and group exercises using miniatures;
- Explain at least three important differences between sandtray therapies and Jungian Sandplay therapy as developed by Swiss child analyst Dora M. Kalff;
- Implement at least one therapeutic exercise using a basket of 10 to 12 miniature figures.
